Summary

Voyage support people who live in their own homes, including shared houses. People are happy with the care and support they receive from confident, compassionate care workers. Care staff are knowledgeable, respectful, and caring. People are encouraged and supported to spend their time doing the things they choose to do.

The service is well managed, and the Responsible Individual (RI) has effective oversight of the running of the service. Care staff are safely recruited and enjoy their work. They feel valued and well supported by the management team. Regular training and competency reviews ensure care staff are supporting people effectively.

Well-being

Voyage supports people to improve their lives and their ability to live as independently as possible. The provider works with landlords of properties to ensure the most suitable accommodation is provided for each person. Individual tenancy agreements are respected, and support is provided to maintain these.

Each person has an allocated key worker who they choose. This is a dedicated member of the care team who they review their progress towards their goals with monthly. The key workers complete reports and liaises with the management team to ensure plans are up to date and reflective of the person, their needs, and wishes. Positive risk taking is encouraged where appropriate and effectively managed to ensure people are safe. People are supported to maintain relationships that are important to them. Care workers also support and encourage people to attend a wide range of activities, which include walking groups, sports teams, hydrotherapy sessions, in house baking and shopping trips.

People are kept safe from harm. Voyage works openly with outside agencies and has a safeguarding policy which is aligned to current guidance. Care staff know how to report concerns and receive regular training in keeping people safe.

Care and Support

People are treated with dignity and respect, support is delivered by caring, compassionate care workers. We saw people in different services relaxed and confident around care staff. People enjoy warm, friendly, and humorous relationships with the care staff. People are treated with understanding and encouragement to achieve their goals. People are communicated with in the best way for them individually and staff receive specialist training in this regard.

Detailed assessments are completed before any support is commenced to ensure the provider can meet the needs and aspirations of the person. Personal plans are produced with the person or their representatives, wherever possible. The plans inform care staff about the person, how they would like to be supported, and what goals they would like to achieve in each identified area. Plans are comprehensive, detailed, and clearly written. They are kept under regular review to ensure they are up to date. We saw plans had been updated promptly after a review from visiting health professionals. All care records are well organised and indexed for ease of reference. Care staff make frequent records to evidence that people are supported in line with their plans. Care notes tend to be task focussed and lack sufficient detail of people's mood or wellbeing throughout the day.

Communication is good. Systems are in place to ensure relevant information is shared between the team and prompt referrals are made to healthcare professionals as required. Plans are updated to reflect any change in care needs as a result of advice given. Family members are kept informed in a timely manner. Effective medication management procedures are followed. Voyage has a medication management policy which is kept under review. All care staff are trained in how to support people with their medication safely, and senior staff carry out regular competency checks to ensure correct procedures are followed.

Leadership and Management

People benefit from effective leadership and management of the service. The manager knows the people who use the service well and effectively oversees the day-to-day running of the service. Effective systems are used to ensure all key information is captured for review by the management team. Regular audits are carried out and feedback sought to test the quality of the service and peoples experience. The RI completes detailed reports which evidence they have effective oversight of the management of the service. The statement of purpose for the service accurately describes how the service is delivered. The provider keeps the statement of purpose under review and submits any changes to the regulator in a timely manner.

Sufficient staff are deployed at each setting to ensure people are supported in accordance with their needs and preferences. Communication with commissioning authorities, care teams, and other agencies is good. Care staff enjoy their work, they told us they feel valued and well supported. One staff member said, "I really enjoy working here, I have been supported to develop my skills and the manager is excellent." Another staff member told us "The training is very good, and the manager is really helpful, they genuinely care about us."

Care staff are safely recruited, we reviewed a selection of staff files and found the required information. This includes references from previous employers, Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) checks and registration with Social Care Wales, the workforce regulator. Staff are trained in a range of areas, including specific training for the setting they are usually employed at. Care staff have regular one to one supervision meetings with their line manager to review their performance. Monthly team meetings encourage all care staff to make suggestions and discuss openly how the service is managed and how the experience of people being supported may be improved.

Summary of Non-Compliance
